
COMET

Morehouse's comet of 1908 was large and had a complex tail, the structure of which changed rapidly as it lost material. One would not expect comets to last very long at that rate, yet there are still many in our solar system.

